

Week 4

Cass R. Sunstein—

Many Working Minds:

Wikis, Open Source Software, and Blogs

Wiki—is from the Hawaiian word
wiki or kiwiki, which means fast or speedy.

Howard G. “Ward” Cunningham created wiki in 1994 with WikiWikiWeb.

He wanted “the simplest online database that could possibly work.”

Bol Leuf said of wiki, “Wiki is inherently democratic —every user has exactly the same capabilities as any other user.”

That statement raises all sorts of potential problems from posting erroneous material or other unfair practices.

So why does the democratic experiment work?

Sunstein think that it has not been misused, because everyone wants Cunningham's democratic experiment to function well.

What do you think about a world full of kind and gentle computer users?

Wikipedia

Wikipedia's mission is “to distribute a free encyclopedia to every single person on the planet in their own language.”

WIKIPEDIA
The Free Encyclopedia

There are nearly 4 million English articles on wiki... as of 3/10/12.

An image estimating the size of a printed version of Wikipedia as of August 2010. (Up-to-date image using volumes of Encyclopædia Britannica)

Therefore, one would have to double the graph
if using the 4 million articles as of today.

Number of articles

on en.wikipedia.org

Wiki is #6 on the top 10 visited websites in the States.

- 1. Google
- 2. Facebook
- 3. Yahoo! (emails)
- 4. YouTube
- 5. Amazon
- 6. Wikipedia
- 7. Twitter
- 8. Blogspot
- 9. Craigslist
- 10. MSN Hotmail

Years ago, humans got God ticked off, and the result was that humans were given many languages at the Tower of Babel.

However, wiki is resolving our language problem.

WIKIPEDIA

English

The Free Encyclopedia

3 543 000+ articles

日本語

フリー百科事典

730 000+ 記事

Deutsch

Die freie Enzyklopädie

1 181 000+ Artikel

Français

L'encyclopédie libre

1 061 000+ articles

Italiano

L'enciclopedia libera

768 000+ voci

Español

La enciclopedia libre

710 000+ artículos

Русский

Свободная энциклопедия

654 000+ статей

Português

A enciclopédia livre

669 000+ artigos

Polski

Wolna encyklopedia

769 000+ haseł

Nederlands

De vrije encyclopedie

668 000+ artikelen

Sunstein said of wiki,
“...it dwarfs the Encyclopedia Britannica.”

His point was in volume/size, but some of the articles are not perfect with important omissions and errors.

Nevertheless, volunteers attempt to correct the problems quickly with hundreds of revisions on an hourly basis.

Sunstein discusses the concept that in wiki that authorship is corporate.
Articles are started, edited, reedited, etc.

That also allows for copying data and using it without legal issues.

GNU Free Documentation License is used by wiki.

Sunstein raises the issue of impartiality of various authors on hot-button issues.

Wiki attempts to alert the readers to this problem with this Stop Hand.

Why Wikis Work (or Not)

Should the ones that do most of the editing receive a franchise and a “more powerful status?”

Then what would stop someone from getting to that status and then mess with the message and have control over differing points of view?

Wikis and More Wikis

Other media outlets have experimented with the wiki model with varying degrees of success.

The Los Angeles Times attempt failed and Esquire's succeeded.

There is a large range of new types of wikis.
The range from Wikicities, to World Wind Wiki, to Wikispecies, to Wikisource, to Meta-Wiki, to Flu Wiki, to Urban Dictionary, etc.

I looked up dime in the Urban Dictionary.

What does it mean?

From the Urban Dictionary's thesaurus for dime:
sexy hot weed hottie fine nickel girl ten money dime piece beautiful marijuana piece quarter
chick ass babe dub cute pot

Blogs

Weblogs are also growing rapidly.

And that was 7 years ago when it was 8 million....

Today, according to wiki,
“As of 16 February 2011..., there were over 156 million public blogs in existence.”

Atrios, Instapundit, and Daily Kos are the most visited blogs.

Stories about Blogs

Glenn Reynolds teaches law at University of Tennessee and started Instapundit in 2001.

His nickname is the Blogfather.

Blog Triumphalism?

On a number of occasions blogger found things that affected the general populace.

- 1. Rather-gate and memos about Bush
- 2. Trent Lott praised Strom Thurmond
- 3. John Kerry remembered Christmas in Cambodia

Not Hayek: Problems in the Blogosphere

Blogs lack peer review. There is also a lack of monetary interest for either good or bad blogging.

Sunstein discusses another problem with blogs; they tend to be read by people who agree with the blogger. Conservatives do not generally read liberal bloggers and vice versa.

Sunstein calls blogs the echo chamber effect.

ECHO CHAMBER IN THE ALPS

BY GUHMSHOO

Do you hear feedback, or is that just the echo chamber?

image source: loc.gov

(c) 2008 ChiefSocialOfficer.com

Ditto-heads love the great Ditto.

<http://www.colbertnation.com/the-colbert-report-videos/409941/march-05-2012/rush-limbaugh-apologizes-to-sandra-fluke>

Evidence

Sunstein cites some early research that finds “91% of he links are to like-minded sites.”

He calls this the cocoon effect and is similar to the echo chamber effect.

Creative Futures for Many Minds

Finally, Sunstein addresses the aggregate dispersed information issue.

www.slashdot.org News for nerds, stuff that matters.... This is a site for engaging discussion.
It has a grading device for their viewers to record their rating.

The logo for Angie's List, featuring the text "Angie's list." in a bold, black, sans-serif font. The word "Angie's" is larger than "list.", and there is a small speech bubble icon above the apostrophe in "Angie's". The entire logo is set against a solid green rectangular background.

Angie's list.

www.angieslist.com does the same thing that was started years before by the Better Business Bureau.

www.eBay.com also does a similar evaluation with messages describing their rating on a product.

Open source software also has a possible even brighter future.

open source

